About the hosting organisation

Service Civil International (SCI) is an international volunteer organisation with more than 100 partners all over the world. Its goals are to promote peace, international understanding and solidarity, social justice, sustainable development and respect for the environment. SCI believes that all people can live together in mutual respect and without the use of any form of violence to resolve conflicts.

Why SCI workcamps?

In cooperation with social, ecological, cultural and anti-racist projects, we organise around 40 international workcamps in Germany every year. Volunteering at an SCI workcamp is a unique form of engagement in which people from different countries and backgrounds live together for two or three weeks to support a local project in its work.

About the project

From June to September 2024, SCI Germany is looking for two volunteers who are well motivated to get to know our work and to coordinate three international workcamps in different locations. Our workcamps support local projects on nature and climate protection, on social work, for children and young people, of memorial sites or in the cultural field.

Your voluntary service will start with a training course where we will prepare you for your tasks as a workcamp coordinator. Between the Workcamps, you will work on the follow-up of the finished workcamp and prepare the next one. For sure, you will have time to recover as well.

What we offer

- good preparation and support for your service
- free accommodation and meals
- monthly pocket money
- full insurance
- reimbursement of travel expenses to Germany and to local projects

What we expect from you

- high motivation for the voluntary service
- flexibility and openness for the challenges of the project
- experience in coordination of groups
- experience in workcamps or voluntary work in general
- good English necessary, any German language knowledge would be great
